PM Modi Inaugurates Rs 3,200 Crore Highway Projects In West Bengal, Targets TMC

(Gns). Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday inaugurated two national highway projects worth Rs 3,200 crore in West Bengal's Nadia district, a move aimed at improving regional connectivity and cutting travel time. The visit also carried political significance ahead of the upcoming assembly elections, with the Prime Minister strongly criticising the Trinamool Congress (TMC) government and urging voters to support the BJP.

Among the projects inaugurated was the 66.7-km four-laning of the Barajaguli-Krishnanagar section of National Highway-34 in Nadia district, along with the four-laning of the 17.6-km Barasat-Barajaguli section of NH-34 in North 24 Parganas district. Together, these stretches are expected to act as a crucial link between Kolkata and Siliguri.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi inaugurated two national highway projects worth Rs 3,200 crore in West Bengal's Nadia district, including the four-laning of the Barajaguli-Krishnanagar and Barasat-Barajaguli sections of NH-34, aiming to improve regional connectivity and provide momentum to tourism across the region.

Addressing a gathering virtually in Nadia district, Modi launched a sharp attack on the Trinamool Congress, describing the prevailing situation in the state as "maha jungle raj". He alleged that corruption, nepotism and appeasement politics under the ruling dispensation had stalled development in Speaking at the Parivartan Sankalpa Sabha, the fourth such meeting in

"hold people to ransom, make them suffer and stop Bengal's progress".

The Prime Minister also accused the Mamata Banerjee-led party of opposing the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls to prevent the identification of infiltrators. Claiming that there was growing public sentiment against the TMC's rule, he said that voices across the state were calling for change, referring to the slogan "Banchte chai, BJP tai" (Need BJP to live).

Modi's visit comes amid heightened political tensions over the SIR exercise in West Bengal. The Trinamool Congress has strongly opposed the revision, with Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee alleging that it is being conducted in haste and could lead to the disenfranchisement of a large number of genuine voters, particularly refugee Hindus.

According to the draft electoral rolls published after the enumeration phase, 58,20,899 names have been excluded, reducing the total electorate in the state to 7.08 crore. The Election Commission has flagged around 1.36 crore entries for "logical discrepancies", while nearly 30 lakh voters have been categorised as unmapped.

The exercise has triggered fresh anxiety among the Matua community, a Dalit Hindu group that migrated from Bangladesh over decades due to religious persecution. In recent years, electoral trends have indicated that the BJP has made significant inroads among the community by promising formal Indian citizenship.

BJP MP Jagannath Sarkar, who represents the Ranaghat Lok Sabha constituency where Tuberipur is located, said fears were being deliberately spread among the Matuas regarding the SIR process. He expressed hope that the Prime Minister's message would help dispel such concerns.

Meanwhile, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee has already led anti-SIR rallies in Nadia and North 24 Parganas districts, both of which border Bangladesh and have a sizeable Matua population.

"Make in India" Metro train

Ahmedabad.

The Chief Minister stated that the first Make in India metro train accepted for the Ahmedabad Metro Rail will be delivered to Ahmedabad within a few days after final tests and certification from the concerned authorities, following which it will be inducted into passenger service. In addition, the remaining nine trains for Ahmedabad will also be supplied by Titagarh in a phased manner over the next 5-6 months. Aligned with the latest globally applicable international standards, this Make in India train will be a source of pride for Gujarat.

On this occasion, the Chief Minister said that the Prime Minister's visionary leadership is defined by forward-looking planning and a constant focus on the welfare of citizens. Elaborating on the crucial role of infrastructure development in the country's growth under PM guidance, Chief Minister said that in recent years, road construction in the country has taken place at a record-breaking pace.

President of India addresses conference on 'timeless wisdom of bharat: pathways of peace and progress' at Hyderabad

The confluence of modernity and spirituality is the greatest strength of our civilization: president Droupadi Murmu

The President of India, Smt Droupadi Murmu, addressed the conference on 'Timeless Wisdom of Bharat: Pathways of Peace and Progress', being organised by Brahma Kumaris Shanti Sarovar to mark its 21st Anniversary at Hyderabad today (December 20, 2025).

Speaking on the occasion, the President said that the global community is undergoing numerous transformations. Along with these changes, we face many serious challenges such as mental health issues, social conflicts, ecological imbalance, and the erosion of human values.

The President said that India's ancient sage tradition has given us the message of truth, non-violence, and peaceful coexistence. Our spiritual heritage offers solutions to the world's mental, moral, and environmental problems. The confluence of modernity and spirituality is the greatest strength of our civilization. She said that we must remember that material development alone does not bring happiness and peace. Inner stability, emotional intelligence, and a value-based approach are essential.

Dr Yadav informed the delegates that MoUs worth ₹32 lakh crore were signed at the Global Investor Summit held in Bhopal, of which the groundbreaking ceremony for investments worth ₹6 lakh crore has already been held. He further informed that on 25 December, the groundbreaking ceremony/inauguration ceremony for the first time, the state government has prioritised the Industry Department directly at the Chief Minister's level to promote industry, ensuring faster decision-making and those standing with him were lying in a manner that was unimaginable.

"If the government is truly against the mafia, bulldozers should be used on the houses of all those whose pictures are being shown with me. Whether it is 'Kaleen Bhaiya' or 'Codeine Bhaiya', equal action should be taken against everyone involved in this illegal business," he demanded.

During the press conference, he said, "Regarding the ongoing developments related to codeine, there is a very important issue that the government is hiding. More than 118 FIRs have been registered across 36 districts, and a black market for cough syrup was operating in Uttar Pradesh. Many photographs are being circulated; if we assume these images to be accurate and consider anyone appearing with me to be a mafia member, then I too have photographs with the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister. I can understand the compulsion," he said.

Akhilesh Yadav alleged that the entire police force is being made to blow whistles to prevent former IPS officer Amitabh Thakur from presenting his case. He also claimed that former MLA Deepak Yadav was sent to jail in a fabricated case.

MP CM urges young entrepreneurs to invest in state

(Gns). Emphasising that factories and industrial development not only bring prosperity but also make positive changes in the lives of thousands of families, Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Dr Mohan Yadav on Saturday urged new entrepreneurs to move forward with innovation, clear thinking, and social responsibility.

The MP CM invited young entrepreneurs to invest more in the state, saying it offers a favourable environment, resources, and facilities for industrial investment, and that the state government is also committed to providing all possible support to investors.

The Chief Minister was addressing the India Summit 2025 for New Entrepreneurs, organised by the Young Entrepreneurs Foundation (YEF), in Indore on Saturday.

Dr Yadav asserted that youth power is the foundation of India's future, and the dream of a self-reliant India can be realised through entrepreneurship and innovation. He noted that Madhya Pradesh has emerged as the fastest-growing state in the country.

He pointed out that for the first time, the state government has prioritised the Industry Department directly at the Chief Minister's level to promote industry, ensuring faster decision-making and stronger investor confidence.

"A new commitment to industry has been made in Madhya Pradesh with a clear policy of 'Enhancing Lives through Industry'. This policy will not only accelerate economic development but also create large-scale employment opportunities for youth," the CM stated.

Invisible Crisis

India's roads kill with a predictability that should shame a modern state. Day after day, lives are lost not in dramatic, singular catastrophes but in an unbroken sequence of collisions, rollovers and run-overs that barely register beyond a brief news alert. The true crisis is not only the scale of these deaths, but how thoroughly they have been normalised. When fatalities become routine, accountability dissolves. The numbers alone are staggering. Hundreds die on Indian roads every day, a toll that would trigger national mourning if it occurred through any other means of transport. Yet road deaths rarely provoke sustained outrage or policy urgency.

Unlike aviation disasters, which are followed by instant scrutiny and institutional action, road crashes are treated as unfortunate but expected side effects of mobility. This complacency has allowed a slow-moving disaster to entrench itself. On average, India records about 55 road accidents and nearly 20 deaths every hour, translating into over 460 lives lost daily – numbers that expose a continuous national emergency without sustained outrage. Responsibility lies at two levels. The first is infrastructure. Large parts of the road network are unforgiving by design: narrow single-lane highways without medians, poorly marked junctions, unprotected curves and construction zones that appear overnight without warning signage. Straight stretches encourage speeding, while known accident black spots remain uncorrected for years. In such conditions, even a minor lapse can turn fatal. The second layer is human behaviour, enabled by weak systems. Speed limits are ignored because enforcement is inconsistent.

Helmets and seatbelts are treated as optional because penalties are sporadic. Licences are too easily obtained and even more easily renewed, allowing unskilled or medically unfit drivers – especially of heavy vehicles – to remain on the road. The problem is not the absence of rules but the certainty that they can be broken without consequence. What makes this crisis harder to confront is unreliable data. Official figures lag by years and likely undercount deaths, dulling the sense of immediacy. Without real-time, transparent reporting, dangerous corridors cannot be identified quickly and corrective action is delayed. When the state itself does not fully see the scale of the problem, public pressure weakens. Fixing this does not require heroic solutions.

It requires discipline. High-risk roads must be redesigned with physical dividers, crash barriers and clear signage. Where widening is impossible, safety engineering must compensate. Enforcement needs to prioritise certainty over severity – being caught every time matters more than being fined heavily once in a while. Licensing and renewals should test actual driving ability and medical fitness, not just paperwork compliance. Equally important is restoring moral urgency. Daily road deaths should be visible, counted and discussed, not buried in statistical reports. Until every crash is treated as a failure of governance rather than a matter of fate, India's roads will remain lethal. Safe mobility is not a luxury. It is the most basic obligation a state owes its citizens.

Gautam Buddha Inter College Celebrates Annual Day with Grandeur and Colorful Programs

Lucknow: The annual day celebration of Gautam Buddha Inter College, located on Sarojini Nagar Gauri Road, was held this afternoon with great enthusiasm and patriotic fervor. The event, marked by slogans like "Vande Mataram," "Bharat Mata Ki Jai," and "Jai Hind," evoked memories of Operation Sindoora and the indomitable courage of Indian soldiers crushing terrorism. The celebration showcased patriotism and the embodiment of unity in diversity.

Earlier, the ceremony commenced with the lighting of the lamp and garlanding of Lord Gautam Buddha's statue by the chief guest, CRPF DIG Chittaranjan Mahapatra. On this occasion, the school's Managing Director Somil Kushwaha and Principal Pinky Shukla presented bouquets, shawls, and mementos to the chief guest, CRPF DIG

National Commission for Minorities has played a pivotal role in ensuring the protection, welfare, and empowerment of religious minorities

(Gns). National Commission for Minorities celebrated the Minorities Day on December 18th 2025. The community leaders from six minority communities—Muslims, Sikhs, Christians, Buddhists, Jains, and Zoroastrian (Parsi) spoke on the occasion.

The Guest Speaker Dr. Michael V. Williams of Mount Carmel School reminded the gathering why Minority Day matters, underlining the Christian community's long and quiet contribution to nation-building through education and healthcare—stitutions that serve far beyond denominational boundaries.

Md. Tauhid Alam of Jamia Hamdard set minority welfare within the broader framework of Sabka Saath, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Vikas, and emphasized that governance today is all about inclusion. Prof. Harbans Singh of Khalsa College drew message from Gurubani to explain sal from the National Commission for Minorities.

Veteran Parsi leader Shri Marazban Nariman

from minority communities participated actively in the event. During the open session, several queries were raised, covering issues ranging from Minority Certificates to the implementation of various government schemes. The interaction reflected strong engagement and a shared commitment to addressing concerns through dialogue.

Creating an Inclusive Society

Ms Alka Upadhyaya, Secretary, NCM, elaborated on the government schemes aimed at uplifting minority communities. She stated that minority communities have made invaluable contributions to the nation's rich social, cultural, and economic fabric. National Commission for Minorities has been working tirelessly to build an inclusive and equitable society.

how coexistence and collective prosperity are not slogans but lived traditions.

Acharya Yeshi Phuntsok and Dr. Indu Jain spoke candidly about the challenges faced by Buddhist and Jain communities, seeking responsive redress.

Zaiwalla closed by detailing minority-focused programmes and the NCM's role as a bridge—bringing India's many communities onto a shared civic platform.

A huge auditorium with a capacity of 1000 persons built between Mathura-Vrindavan 90 percent construction work completed, finishing and interior decoration work going on war footing.

Mathura. Yogi government is bringing a wonderful gift for the people of Braj and the artists here in the new year. A state-of-the-art auditorium is being constructed near the 100-bed hospital between Mathura and Vrindavan to preserve the rich cultural heritage of Braj and provide it a modern global platform. This auditorium, being built at a cost of approximately Rs 4215.60 lakh, will become a new center for the preservation of art, music and traditional genres of Braj. It should be noted that the religious and cultural centers of Uttar Pradesh are being modernized by the Yogi government. Mathura-Devotees coming to Vrindavan will now not only visit the temples, but will also be able to experience the ancient culture of Braj and the vibrant arts of Braj in this grand centre.

In the auditorium, full care has been taken not only of the stage but also of the convenience of the artists and guests coming here. Dormitories are being arranged in the campus for the stay of artists coming from far away places, and a canteen for catering to tourists and spectators. There will also be concrete arrangements for Type-3 accommodation, parking, guard room and security in the complex.

90 percent work completed, will be inaugurated in February

The project is at its final stages. 90 percent of the construction work has been successfully completed and currently the finishing work is going on war footing. Suraj Patel, CEO of Uttar Pradesh Braj Teerth Vikas Parishad, said that by the end of February, this auditorium will be completely ready and will be dedicated to the people of Braj.

spending more than Rs 42 crore on this project. The capacity of the main auditorium is 1000 persons, where big cultural programs and conferences can be organised. Along with this, a grand amphitheater has also been built for traditional festivals and performances under the open sky, which will provide a new experience to the festivals of Braj.

The main vision of Uttar Pradesh Braj Teerth Vikas Parishad is not only to keep these arts alive, but to present them to the world in a modern form. Through this auditorium, local artists will get a grand platform to showcase their talent, which will preserve the ancient culture of Braj and the names mentioned in the Jeffrey Epstein file became public, it could cause a political earthquake in India, due to which a "Marathi man" might become the Prime Minister of India.

Tweeting about the matter on his X handle, Chavan tagged the official X handles of the Maharashtra Congress, the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, and Union Minister Nitin Gadkari.

"If the information in the 'Epstein Files' currently circulating in America comes out, it could cause a major earthquake in Indian politics. In this political upheaval, we may see a Marathi man become the Prime Minister of the country by next month," Chavan tweeted on X.

However, when media persons asked Chavan about "Which Marathi man could become the Prime Minister during a press conference at Karad," Chavan kept the suspense alive by saying nothing more than, "You find out now."
