PM Modi highlights Piyush Goyal's vision on India-New Zealand Free Trade Agreement

(Gns). Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday drew attention to a comprehensive article by Union Minister Piyush Goyal that sheds light on the expanding role of India's Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) in driving economic growth and improving the lives of millions.

"In this insightful article, Union Minister Shri Piyush Goyal explains that India's FTAs today go well beyond tariff reductions, forming part of a broader mission to strengthen the economy and improve the lives of millions," PM Modi said in a post on the social media platform X.

In his write-up, Minister Goyal elaborates that India's FTAs are now a pivotal tool for inclusive growth, extending benefits across various segments

Permanent Cure For Bangladesh Issue Is Surgery: Assam CM Himanta Biswa Sarma

(Gns).

In a stark warning over escalating unrest in Bangladesh, Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma stated on Monday that diplomatic solutions are failing and a permanent resolution might require "surgery." Speaking exclusively at News18's Rising Assam Conclave, Sarma emphasized the direct threat posed to India's Northeast, particularly highlighting the vulnerability of the strategic Siliguri Corridor, or 'Chicken Neck'.

"The 'Chicken Neck' is our biggest strategic concern and an unfinished agenda," Sarma asserted. He pointed out that this narrow stretch, connecting the Northeast to mainland India, is flanked by Bangladesh on both sides.

Sarma suggested that India may eventually need to secure 20-22 kilometers of land, through diplomacy or other means, to safeguard this critical link.

"When medicine fails, surgery becomes necessary," he said, using a medical analogy to describe the deteriorating situation.

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma warned that diplomatic solutions are failing amid escalating unrest in Bangladesh, potentially necessitating intervention to safeguard the 'Chicken Neck' corridor and address demographic shifts in Assam.

Telangana SIT to send notice to KCR on phone tapping

(Gns).

The Special Investigation Team (SIT) investigating the phone-tapping case is all set to issue notices to former chief minister K Chandrasekhar Rao and former finance minister T Harish Rao. The notices are likely to be issued after the winter session of the state Legislative Assembly in December.

After the meeting with EPS and the AIADMK team, Goyal told the media that the NDA would face the assembly elections under the leadership of EPS and defeat the DMK-led alliance. "Removing the corrupt DMK from power is the task before us. We will face the elections with confidence under the leadership of AEAPS and the guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The NDA will have a resounding victory," he asserted.

Citizenship Under Scrutiny

The forced removal of a pregnant Indian citizen to Bangladesh on mere suspicion exposes a dangerous erosion of due process at the heart of the state's immigration machinery. When citizenship can be questioned not through evidence but through accent, language, or religious identity, the problem is no longer illegal migration alone ~ it becomes one of constitutional fidelity. India's eastern border has always been porous, shaped by history rather than hard lines on a map. Movement across it predates Partition and continues to be driven by work, family ties, and, at times, fear. Managing such migration is undoubtedly complex.

But complexity cannot justify shortcuts that bypass verification protocols or reduce citizenship to a matter of police discretion. When deportation precedes investigation, the burden of proof is unfairly shifted onto the individual, often the poorest and least equipped to defend themselves. What is most disturbing in recent cases is not merely administrative error but the pattern it suggests. Bengali-speaking Muslims ~ whose presence in Murshidabad, Birbhum and other parts of West Bengal even predates the 1757 Battle of Plassey ~ appear disproportionately vulnerable to detention, even when they are long-term citizens. Language, in this context, becomes evidence; identity, a liability. This creates a chilling precedent in a multilingual country where internal migration is both legal and essential to urban economies. If workers from one state can be expelled without confirmation from their home administration, no migrant labourer is truly secure. The humanitarian consequences are immediate and brutal. Families are separated across borders, children are detained, and livelihoods vanish overnight.

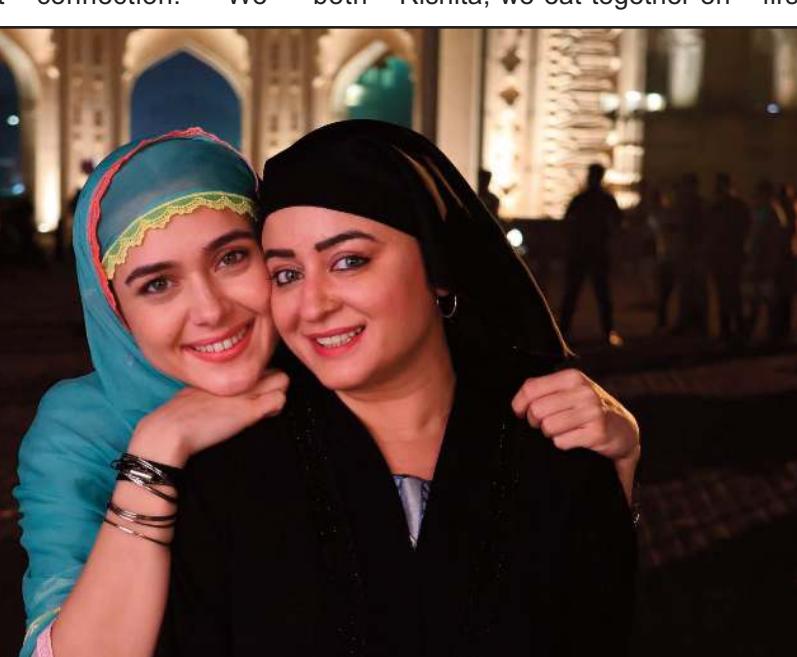

For women, especially those pregnant or caring for young children, detention and expulsion carry risks that go far beyond legal inconvenience. The psychological trauma of imprisonment in a foreign land, coupled with uncertainty about one's legal status, leaves scars that court orders cannot easily erase. Judicial intervention, when it comes, often arrives late and only for a few. Courts may grant temporary relief on humanitarian grounds, but they cannot reunite families instantly, recover lost income, or restore dignity. Nor can they compensate for months spent in limbo because an administrative safeguard was ignored. Justice delayed in such cases is not just justice denied; it is justice diminished. At a policy level, the silence around numbers and procedures is telling. Without transparent data on detentions and deportations, accountability becomes impossible. Immigration enforcement, by its nature, involves the exercise of immense state power.

In a democracy, such power demands visibility, clear rules, and independent oversight. Otherwise, enforcement risks becoming indistinguishable from coercion. India's Constitution does not condition citizenship on language, religion, or the ability to instantly produce paperwork. It guarantees equality before the law and protection against arbitrary action. Upholding these principles is not incompatible with border management; it is essential to it. A system that mistakes its own citizens for outsiders corrodes the very idea of the nation it claims to defend.

"I genuinely feel like I have one more child now," says Mahhi Vij on her bond with Rishita Kothari in COLORS' 'Seher Hone Ko Hai'

Sometimes the magic of television isn't written in scripts, it's formed in bonds that feel like family. That rare magic is currently unfolding in COLORS' newest offering, 'Seher Hone Ko Hai', where the mother-daughter bond between Kausar (Mahhi Vij) and Seher (Rishita Kothari) is not just being performed, but truly lived.

Set against the culturally rich, emotionally layered backdrop of a Lucknow household, the family drama tells the story of Kausar, a mother who refuses to let destiny repeat its cruelties. Having once buried her own dream of becoming a doctor, she is now fiercely determined that her daughter Seher will not be denied the future she deserves. Off-screen, the maa-beti chemistry that viewers are already falling in love with has spilled into reality.

Mahhi shares, "From the very first day Rishita and I met, there was an instant connection. We both

What people see on screen is exactly who we are off-screen. While shooting our first pivotal scene, both of us teared up, and even now, at regular moments, we still get emotional because the story is very emotional. If I'm away, I keep thinking, 'Has she eaten? Is she shooting? Is she tired? Is she okay?' And the moment she wraps her scenes, she comes looking for me first ~ that's how close we've become."

As the track moves into deeper emotional territory, with Kausar standing stronger than ever for Seher's future, this real-life bond is set to intensify the drama, and viewers might just witness a turning point that neither Kausar nor Seher saw coming.

Union Bank of India has announced a reduction in interest rates on select retail loan products, effective 18 December 2025, compared to its earlier applicable rates. The bank is among the first in the sector to react to recent monetary easing, lowering interest rates across Home Loans, Vehicle Loans, and Personal Loans to enhance affordability for retail borrowers.

Under the revised rate structure, home loan interest rates have been reduced by 30 basis points, and will now start at 7.15% per annum, as against the earlier rate of 7.45% p.a. The Reserve Bank of India reduced the repo rate by 25 basis points to 5.25% on December 5, 2025, marking the fourth rate cut in 2025 and taking the cumulative reduction for the year to 125 basis points. The Union government had also eased GST norms for automotive sector.

With this revision, Union Bank of India aims to support homebuyers, vehicle purchasers and personal loan customers by lowering borrowing costs while continuing to maintain prudent lending standards. Through this scheme, Government of Gujarat is realising the Prime Minister's vision of "Padhai Bhi, Poshan Bhi."

Gandhinagar, 23 December 2025 : To promote the values of good governance across the country, 25 December, the birth anniversary of former Prime Minister and Bharat Ratna Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee, is observed as "Good Governance Day." Guided by these principles, the Government of Gujarat, under the leadership of Chief Minister Shri Bhupendra Patel, has launched several initiatives aimed at the holistic welfare of citizens. One such significant initiative is the Mukhyamantri Paushtik Alpahar Yojana, which strengthens children's education by ensuring adequate nutrition. At present, more than 40 lakh students across Gujarat are benefiting from this scheme.

Emphasising the importance of nutrition alongside children's education, the Chief Minister stated, "Along with the mid-day meal in government schools, this initiative provides fresh and nutritious breakfast. As a result, students' interest in government schools has increased, along with a significant improvement in their nutritional levels. The state government also remains firmly committed to ensuring that government schools are adequately equipped with essential facilities, including modern classrooms, drinking water, electricity, toilets, sanitation, and transportation."

The Mukhyamantri Paushtik Alpahar Yojana Gives New Direction to Good Governance

During his three-year tenure, Chief Minister Shri Bhupendra Patel has established new benchmarks of Sushasan, Seva (Service), and Vikas by implementing welfare-oriented schemes that ensure holistic development and strengthen good gover-ernance in the state. Notably, the Chief Minister launched this scheme on 11 December 2024. The primary objective of this scheme, introduced under the Suposhit Gujarat Mission, is to ensure that students in government and grant-in-aid primary schools receive nutritious breakfast in addition to the mid-day meal under the PM Poshan Yojana.

divert attention from its failures. Bangladesh's economy is sinking, unemployment rising, inflation increasing and the government is unable to meet basic demands of the public.

Yunus was selected to head the interim government to transform the country and improve its economy. However, the reverse has happened. By worsening ties with Delhi, cooperation in all fields came to a standstill. Facing failure, Yunus began playing the anti-India card by moving closer to Pakistan and China, hoping to force Delhi to accede to his requests. It did not happen.

China will only provide loans at high rates of interest while Pakistan has nothing to offer except anti-India narratives while it exploits Bangladesh territory for expanding insurgencies in India's North East and use the country as an additional route of infiltration for Kashmiri terrorists. Increased visits to the country by Pakistan's military and ISI officials add credence to this.

The theme has been that India has exploited Bangladesh and unduly interfered in its internal matters throughout the rule of the Awami League. It could also be an excuse to delay elections. Without naming anyone Yunus had mentioned, "The objective of the conspirators (killing Hadi) is to derail the election." It was with this intent that Yunus hailed Hadi as a martyr and claimed the killers were linked to the Awami League and had fled to India. The interim government declared a day's state mourning and announced the conduct of special prayers in honour of Hadi. Yunus along with his advisory council members and the army chief attend-to public anger against India. An anti-India narrative is also being played out by Pakistan's ISI in Bangladesh, targeting youth, largely unaware of the atrocities committed by Pakistan during the freedom struggle.

been a marked improvement in both students' school attendance and their nutritional levels. In rural areas, parents often leave early for daily labour, resulting in children frequently coming to school without a proper meal. Prior to the introduction of this scheme, many students attended school irregularly and showed limited interest in their studies. Following its implementation, regular attendance has increased significantly. Furthermore, the number of malnourished children has declined considerably, while the inclusion of pulses in the supplementary nutrition has supported their physical development. This sensitive initiative of the Government of Gujarat is playing a vital role in ensuring the holistic development of students. India was always the first responder whenever Bangladesh faced a natural disaster. The ongoing anti-India wave is far more damaging for Bangladesh. All claims of a greater Bangladesh mean nothing, as it lacks resources and military power to achieve this.

The over 4,100-km long border implies the nation is surrounded on three sides by India, while this is also a challenge for Indian security forces. The Bangladesh leadership is repeating Pakistan's narrative. The Pakistan economy is in tatters, surviving on loans from the IMF and other global institutions, inflation is high, unemployment on the rise, while internally there is a battle for power with Asim Munir taking control of all institutions. Gulf nations are returning Pakistani nationals while refusing to grant fresh visas. Internally, Pakistan's western provinces face major security upheavals.

To divert minds of its people, Pakistani narratives highlight fake Indian atrocities in Kashmir, targeting of minorities, the stalled Indus Water Treaty and Delhi's refusal to discuss Kashmir. The public is pushed into believing that all their problems emanate from India. This enables the military and political leadership to empty the country's coffers and exploit its gullible populace. Bangladesh is adopting the same playbook. Unless the public understands the game being played by the Yunus government, the country will continue to sink. If it has to restore its economy, it needs India. Accusing India would only be detrimental.

Measured Relief

(Gns). The latest inflation numbers from the United States offer a moment of relief in a debate that has been politically charged and economically fraught for years. A slower pace of price increases in November suggests that some of the pressures weighing on households may finally be easing. But beneath the headline figure lies a more complicated story ~ one that cautions against premature celebration or sweeping policy conclusions.

On the surface, the moderation in inflation appears broad-based. Prices for discretionary services such as hotels, along with everyday essentials like milk and clothing, showed signs of cooling. Most notably, housing-related costs ~ long the most stubborn and anxiety-inducing component of household budgets ~ registered an unusual slowdown. Given the heavy weight of rents and shelter carry in inflation calculations, this shift alone explains much of the softer reading. Yet this apparent progress comes with caveats. The inflation report was delayed due to a government shutdown, disrupting data collection and leaving gaps that complicate interpretation.

The case for further interest rate cuts, especially if core components continue to soften. However, acting too aggressively on incomplete data risks misjudging the underlying momentum of the economy.

While politically popular with some constituencies, such constraints tend to push wages ~ and eventually prices ~ higher. If labour shortages intensify, they could offset recent gains on the inflation front. In essence, down, a factor that could reverse once demand normalises. For monetary policymakers, the numbers widen the narrow corridor they have been navigating. Inflation remains above the level typically considered healthy, but its direction now offers greater flexibility. A sustained easing would strengthen

Trade-related costs often filter through slowly, resurfacing months after policy announcements fade from headlines. Labour markets pose another challenge. Restrictions on immigration may tighten the supply of workers in labour-intensive sectors such as agriculture, construction, and hospitality.

Hindi author to receive the country's highest literary recognition.

Shukla's first poem, Lagbhag Jai Hind, was published in 1971. His novels—"Naukar Ki Kameez", "Deewar Mein Ek Khidki Rehti Thi" and "Khilega To Dekhenge"—are regarded as landmarks for their nuanced portrayal of ordinary lives and quiet existential tensions. "Naukar Ki Kameez" was adapted into a film by noted filmmaker Mani Kaul, while "Deewar Mein Ek Khidki Rehti Thi" earned him the Sahitya Akademi Award.

Critics have often noted that Shukla's strength lay in his ability to express complex inner worlds through unadorned language. His works brought a fresh sensibility to Indian fiction, blending the rhythms of everyday life with subtle philosophical enquiry.

During his long literary career, Shukla received several major honours, including the Sahitya Akademi Award, Raza Award, Shikhar Samman, and the Maithilisharan Gupt Samman. In 2021, the Sahitya Akademi conferred on him its highest distinction, naming him an Honorary Fellow.

Trump Unveils New Class of Warship Named After Himself

(Gns).

Trump is hoping to leave his mark on the US Navy with many US ships named after prominent political figures

US President Donald Trump on Monday unveiled plans for a new class of Navy ship named after himself.

President Donald Trump announced plans for a new class of Navy ship, the Trump-class vessels, starting with two ships and potentially expanding to 25, which will be called the Golden Fleet. The first ship will be called USS Defiant, and the US Navy will lead the design, with Trump, US Secretary of Defense Pete Hegseth, Navy Secretary John Phelan, and US Secretary of State Marco Rubio present. Trump aims to boost US shipbuilding, concerned by China's expanding fleet, and the ships may have atomic weapons.

While speaking at his Mar-a-Lago residence in Florida, the president claimed the "Trump-class"

Navy vessels "will be the largest battleship in the history of our country."

The new initiative will start with two "Trump-class" vessels before being expanded to up to 25 new watercraft, which is being dubbed the "Golden Fleet." The first "Trump-class" ship will be called the "USS Defiant."

"The US Navy will lead the design of these ships along with me, because I'm a very aesthetic person," Trump said at the event, with US Secretary of Defense Pete Hegseth, Navy Secretary John Phelan and US Secretary of State Marco Rubio in attendance.

Trump wants to boost US shipbuilding as China expands fleet

The president vowed to

"restore America as a major shipbuilding power." The US has grown concerned by China's ever-expanding maritime fleet.

Trump said the ships could be equipped with atomic weapons.

The ships are the latest attempt by the US president to leave his mark on the US Armed Forces. Trump has never served in the military.

Naval ships are frequently named after prominent political figures, such as the USS Theodore Roosevelt aircraft carrier. There are currently not any warships named after Trump.

Trump has previously complained of "rusty" US Navy ships. During his confirmation hearing in February, Navy Secretary Phelan said Trump asked him what he is going to do about corroded US ships.

Kerala CMO interfering in Sabarimala SIT probe through two IPS officers: VD Sathesan

(Gns).

Senior Congress leader and Leader of the Opposition in the Kerala Assembly V D Sathesan on Tuesday made serious allegations against Kerala Chief Minister's Office (CMO). He said the CMO is putting pressure on the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing the Sabarimala gold heist case through two senior IPS officers assigned by the CMO are putting undue pressure on the SIT and trying to influence the probe. Both of them should be withdrawn from the case, otherwise the names of the two senior IPS officers will be revealed,"

Sathesan said.

The court has given a clear opinion on the slow progress of the investigation. It is expected that the investigation will proceed in the right earnest with the court's intervention. Let's move forward. I do not express any distrust in the SIT yet. There is pressure on them. There was pressure before Vasu was arrested. But they overcame it. We believe that the big sharks will be brought to justice," he said

Sathesan further said that the Congress was the first to demand a CBI investigation in the gold loot case, but did not insist on it, because the high court took the matter seriously. "We were the ones who had demanded a CBI investigation in the Sabarimala gold robbery case. The reason we did not insist on it is because the Kerala High Court took the matter seriously. If the court had not intervened, this theft would have continued. The theft in 2019 would have happened in 2024 as well. The SIT was appointed with the direct intervention of the High Court. That is why we supported it," he said

The Congress leader further said that during the local body elections, the investigation slowed down under pressure from the CMO.

On Monday, the victim arrived at the Women's Commission office in Lucknow with her doctor father. She met with Vice President Aparna Yadav. During the meeting, the victim said, "I was tortured a lot. I am scared."

The accused doctor appeared before the investigation committee on Monday. Initially, he was reluctant to appear. When asked to appear, he requested leave citing illness, but the committee refused. He pleaded not guilty and said he was not married. He was asked to submit an affidavit.
